

Land purchase article gets 'no' from fincom

The Wilmington Finance Committee has turned thumbs down on a proposal by the Concerned Citizens of Wilmington to appropriate $243,000 for the purchase of conservation land near Wilmington Plaza.

In a unanimous vote, the FinCom last week recommended that voters disapprove the proposal, article 2 on the warrant for a December 8 Special Town Meeting, because of its high cost and the likelihood of setting a precedent and the possibility of a suit by landowners were the property to be taken by eminent domain.

The land, if purchased, would stymie a Housing Authority plan to construct 80 units of elderly housing and 25 units of low and moderate income housing near Wilmington Plaza, articles 6 and 7 on the December 8 warrant.

The FinCom has recommended voters approve article 6 for elderly housing and disapprove article 7 for low and moderate income housing. However, Housing Authority Chairman Barbara Larson told the nearly 25 residents present at the hearing she was not certain the town would be allowed to build one and not the other without jeopardizing the project's 100 percent federal funding.

The FinCom also recommended last week that voters approve the appropriation of $200,000 for the purpose of re-assessing Wilmington property in compliance with a state mandate to bring the town up to 100 percent valuation by June, 1981. At a meeting with the Department of Revenue last Friday, Wilmington officials were told that the state would hire a contractor itself to undertake revaluation on the day after the Special Town Meeting, if voters again chose to ignore the state mandate. At the annual Town Meeting last spring, Wilmington voters overwhelmingly defeated a proposal to appropriate what was then $125,000 to revalue the town.

Disapproval was recommended by the FinCom of another Housing Authority sponsored article, requesting a bylaw change for the minimum eligibility age for elderly housing residents from 65 to 62.

The FinCom opted, however, to recommend approval of the sale of 6,300 acres of town owned land to Berkshire Builders, the project's developers, to ensure sufficient frontage for the project.

"I feel this article is the key to all the problems in this area," Selectman Rocco DePasquale told Finance Committee members at last week's hearing. DePasquale said he believed that because the project encompasses three building zones, defeat of article 8 would prevent the Housing Authority from going ahead under Chapter 774 of Massachusetts Law, the so-called anti-snob zoning law which allows state housing authorities to bypass the usual town meeting route and obtain a special board of appeals permit.

DePasquale and Selectman Daniel Ballou have both refused to sign the warrant for the December 8 Special Town Meeting because the Housing Authority articles were included in it.

"I object to the Housing Authority coming in with 774 as a threat to make these articles (6 and 7 on the warrant) non-binding," DePasquale said angrily.

Echoing his thoughts were Paul Theodos and Duncan McNeil, both members of the Concerned Citizens of Wilmington. McNeil called Chapter 774 "a sleeper clouding the issue."

"I can't understand why these articles are being presented if they are going ahead with 774. Theodos asserted. "I think this is just a waste of time."

Theodos also questioned why the Housing Authority has not provided the town with information about the number of school children likely to occupy the units if they are built.

Former School Department

Business Manager Anthony DeLuca, now Business Manager for Shawsheen Tech, said he believed the concept of educational costs to be "a very important factor."

"Educational costs of low income housing will strangle you to death," DeLuca said in a reference to a possible need for increased special education under Chapter 766.

The Finance Committee also questioned what impact the project would have on the need for fire and police protection. "Under the Proposition 2½ we are going to have some cuts, we don't want to mandate to increase," said one member.

Larsen said, however, the Housing Authority had not yet come up with a figure for possible increased fire and police protection.

Larsen said that the Housing Authority was working on a residents' preference list for housing eligibility. "This has been worked on in other towns," she said, "but we can't apply for this until it is actually funded."

The Housing Authority currently has a five year waiting list, nearly 80 percent of which are Wilmington residents, Larsen said. Finance Committee Chairman Walter Kaminski has requested that his board be shown the list to determine whether there is indeed, a need for housing. Larsen said, however, that she would first have to determine if such an action would violate applicants' privacy rights.

Housing Authority Member Lorraine Brozyna commented at the hearing that many Wilmington residents are afraid to speak up about housing needs at the present time but have still been calling her board to request housing.

The FinCom also recommended voters disapprove a Concerned Citizens of Wilmington petition article which would amend the town charter to include a recall procedure for the removal of elected officials from office. The recall procedure is article 1 on the December 8 ballot.

HUD official says funding tied together

Wilmington's chances of securing the $400,000 Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) Community Development Block Grant it recently applied for will be seriously jeopardized if voters at the December 8 Special Town Meeting reject either of the federally funded options for housing for the elderly or low and moderate income housing, selectmen were told Monday night.

Wilmington's participation in the Community Development Block Grant program began this year with the award of a $245,000 grant to upgrade substandard homes in the Silver Lake area. The town recently applied for a 1981 grant to continue that program.

According to HUD Community Development Representative Al Carpenter, who met with the Wilmington selectmen Monday night, applications have been "honed down" and it appears that Wilmington is in contention for the 1981 grants.

However, Carpenter explained, if a town does not appear to HUD to be meeting its housing needs that could "critically" affect the rating it receives.

"The town expressed a need for housing in 1976 and was awarded 25 units of family housing," Carpenter said. In 1978, he continued, the town again expressed a need for housing and was awarded 80 units of elderly housing.

"We expect a town to go forward in satisfying these needs," he said. "I think this particular town has said we have a need but we don't intend to do anything to satisfy this need."

Selectman Rocco DePasquale pointed out that one of the questions still surrounding the housing issue in Wilmington was whether the town would be granted funds for the 80 units of elderly housing if it refused funds for the 25 units of low and moderate income housing.

"If you put low and moderate income housing with elderly housing, the elderly will be victimized," DePasquale said.

DePasquale said that if the town "had its druthers" it would most likely opt for scattered site housing, such as already exists in the town.

Carpenter seemed surprised, that such a question was still unsolved.

"We thought this had been thoroughly discussed... that the agency was not in favor of giving you one without the other," he said.

"I think you would have a problem with the small cities application if you were only willing to proceed with one type of housing," concurred HUD representative Robert Brown. According to Carpenter, both types of housing must commence within "a reasonable time," defined by Brown as usually three years.

But with low and moderate income housing, Wilmington is into its fourth year already, Carpenter said.

"I am opposed to federally funded housing in Wilmington. I really don't think the people in town have had the input on this they should have had," asserted Selectman Dan Ballou. In a heated exchange with Carpenter, Ballou said he thought the project would be "devastating" to the town. The project, he said, should be tailored to the needs of the town.

"What works in Boston and Columbia Point won't work in Wilmington," Ballou said.

Ballou also appeared angry that the housing and urban redevelopment projects were interrelated.

"What we are in effect being told tonight is that these grants could be in jeopardy if this housing does not go through. Why should we be forced to swallow the hook and all?"

He admitted, however, that while low and moderate income is generally finding little favor in the community, housing for the elderly is not as generally disapproved of.

"I don't think people are opposed to housing for the elderly," said Ballou, "that goes along with apple pie and Chevrolet."

The Monday evening meeting between HUD officials and the Wilmington selectmen resulted from what Carpenter termed "a great deal of confusion" at HUD's Boston office about whether or not the town was planning to proceed with the projects for which it had been funded.

"It was suggested that maybe we could come out and discuss this with the board and see if we could find out exactly what is going to happen," he said.

Carpenter said he realized that a final answer could only come after the December 8 Special Town Meeting. In the meantime, he promised, he would attempt to discover whether the Housing Authority would be able to give first preference for housing to individuals it has on its present list or whether a new list would have to be drawn up.

Arresting speaker

Crime prevention is the subject. Officer William Gable is the speaker. Gable has talked about Wilmington's crime prevention program before many local groups recently. He is shown speaking at the Wilmington Rotary Club. Next to him is Rotary President Dick Forrest.

No petitioner, no approval

Lack of attendance at last week's Finance Committee hearing on articles for Wilmington's December 8 Special Town Meeting may have cost Middlesex M & R Realty Trust a FinCom seal of approval.

"When a petitioner fails to appear, normally the FinCom recommends disapproval," FinCom Chairman Walter Kaminski told the gathering.

Articles 9 and 10 of the warrant both deal with the same parcel of land, approximately one acre on Cook Hill.

Middlesex M&R Realty Trust, one principal of which is Wilmington Police Officer Dennis Rooney, wishes to purchase the land. The firm already owns adjacent property which is used to store heavy construction equipment.

Cook Hill residents whose homes abut the parcel are seeking to have the land set aside for conservation use, to protect their homes from industrial encroachment, and to continue to act as a watershed for the area.

According to resident Ken Flewelling, Cook Hill is an extinct volcano, which is "all ledge, except for a low part where the industrial land is."

Currently, he says, the forested, town-owned strip acts as a buffer to shield Cook Hill homes from the industrial zone. He and his neighbors want to keep it that way.

Town Manager Sterling Morris estimates the fair market value of the parcel, if sold, to be $5,000.

Transfer of the land to Conservation Commission control would not require any expenditure of funds, however.

"I feel that this would be very beneficial because of the erosion that is going to occur," Conservation Commission Chairman Chester Bruce said of article 10, the residents' article.

"If we have to maintain that hill, it (the cost to the town) will exceed the price we would get for the land," he said.

Open house at high school

Open House for parents of students at Wilmington High School will be held on Tuesday evening, December 2 from 7 to 9 p.m.

From 9 to 10 p.m. refreshments will be available in the large cafeteria. This will give parents and teachers an opportunity to meet in an informal atmosphere.

Ruth Harmen weds Earl Camber

The wedding of Ruth E. Harmen and G. Earl Camber took place on Oct. 18 at the United Church of Christ, Wilmington. The Rev. Bruce Camber, son of the groom and the Rev. Charles Myers officiated at the afternoon ceremony.

The church was decorated with white gladioli and each front pew displayed a bunch of Scottish Heather tied with the clan tartan ribbons of the bride and groom's families.

Given in marriage by her father, William H. Fairweather of Quincy, the bride wore a waltz length gown of ecru quina with matching lace jacket. Her chiffon hat was replete with lace appliques and she carried a white Bible and matching white orchid. Over her wedding dress the bride wore a sash of her family clan tartan, ornamented by an antique silver brooch.

The groom, who holds the office of Northeast District Chaplain of the Royal Canadian Legion, was attired in his Canadian Legion uniform. He wore a vest of his clan tartan.

Mrs. Delbert Camber, mother of the groom chose a powder blue dress for the occasion and looked lovely as she wore a corsage of contrasting coral sweetheart roses and miniature white mums.

Mrs. Marilyn Redmond of Tewksbury, and Miss Barbara Fairweather of Quincy, sisters of the bride, were matron and maid of honor. They wore identical dresses of plum quina with matching jackets and carried old fashioned bouquets of miniature white mums and sweetheart roses.

John McGuinness of Wilmington served as best man for the groom.

Bill Harmen, son of the bride ushered the guests. Other ushers were members of the Royal Canadian Legion.

Inspirational Scottish music was played on the bagpipes by Harold Lang, piper for the Royal Canadian Legion. The hymn, "Amazing Grace" was played for the recessional while members of the Royal Canadian Legion formed an honor guard for the couple.

The reception was held at the American Legion Hall in Wilmington where Gene Blanchard, commander of the Stewart Highlanders and commander of Merrimack Valley Post No. 177 of Royal Canadian Legion was master of ceremonies.

After a wedding trip to Pennsylvania and the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia, the couple is now at home at 134 Burlington Ave., Wilmington.

Firm seeks Jewel Drive site

The Chemlawn Corporation of Columbus, Ohio is seeking to locate a regional headquarters in Wilmington. The Wilmington Redevelopment Authority interviewed Ed Kemp Jr., regional manager to discuss the prospects.

Chemlawn has a national business of maintaining lawns. It provides lawns with specially formulated applications to formulate growth and prevent the emergence of weeds.

Kemp told the Redevelopment Authority that he felt Wilmington was a good place in which to locate because of the attractive places of business that he saw, as he drove around town.

If the firm does locate here it hopes to have a building erected, off Jewel Drive, by April first.

Jim Kemp Jr., Regional manager of the Chemlawn Corporation

Solutions sought for dangerous intersection

The intersection of Whipple Road and Chandler Street is possibly the most dangerous in Tewksbury, at least according to Selectman Tom Budrewicz.

The problem is how to improve the traffic flow of the intersection without the town of Tewksbury spending money that it does not have. The selectmen discussed aspects of the problem Monday night at their DPW meeting, and then agreed to put it off until DPW Supt. Phil Pattison can come up with some answers.

There were as many ideas on what to do as there were selectmen at the meeting. The only thing they did not have was money. The discussion started when Pattison reported that perhaps he could get some money from the state through the Urban Assistance Program.

But he wasn't certain. Dick Trueba reminded the board that the intersection was constructed about 1971, using Chapter 90 (state and county) funds. Maybe, he said, the state would put up traffic lights, a yellow and a red light.

Pattison thought he could contact some engineering firm that would do the designing for a price, and tell the town what the cost would be to put in the needed lights. He thought that if the project were approved by the state, then maybe the engineering firm could be paid out of the state funds.

"Don't do it," said Budrewicz. He could see problems arising. Budrewicz said the engineer should come back with some proposal whereby the state would pay for the lights.

Bill Hallisey suggested having a "consultant" submit a design to the state, and then see what happens. Trueba added that such an engineering firm must be "compatible" to the state.

In spite of the suggestions, there seemed to be no answer. Pattison will have to come through with more proposals on how to do something about the intersection of Whipple Road and Chandler Street.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

This is my son Evan's fifth year playing in the Wilmington intramural hockey league. This is the first year games have been scheduled for Sunday mornings.

When the hockey schedule for the Squirts first came out there were several games scheduled for Saturday mornings at eight o'clock. This caused some concern for parents who would have an impossible time getting their boys to CCD classes on time or at all. Such scheduling conflicts have been avoided by all sports leagues in the past. The protestations of the parents brought about the desired change.

It is important and right that the parents spoke up and said that the religious training of their children was more important than hockey. Biblically they are on very solid ground. Throughout the Scriptures parents are commanded to see to it that their children are instructed in the "ways of the Lord."

Last week we received a new schedule. The Saturday morning games have all been moved to Sunday morning - about one third of the remaining games. Since it is important to have boys attend CCD and Mass is it not equally important for my son to attend Sunday School and worship? Before the schedule change was made I expressed my concern to the intramural director and since the change, I have attempted to discuss the problem with the chairman of the board of directors of the Wilmington Youth Hockey Association. Mr. Gillis, the chairman, said he would look into it and would call me. After seven days I am still waiting.

Tuesday, November 18, I spoke to the Wilmington Council of Churches. The Council reiterated its consistent position of opposition to sports activities taking place Sunday mornings when many religious activities take place. This is the only time Protestants have this opportunity.

If the schedule is not changed, Evan will miss those Sunday games that conflict with his primary responsibilities. My wife and I made a public commitment to "train him in the way he should go" when he was dedicated 10 years ago. We have also attempted to make him realize that sacrifices must be made occasionally if all of us are to take our Christian commitments seriously. This sacrifice, to be sure, is a small one; however, will we stand up and be counted when the big tests come if we are unwilling or unable to for the little ones?

There are inherent dangers in writing this letter to the Crier. A long letter will necessitate editing and some of the meaning could be lost.

There will be those who read this literary effort and shrug it off to some religious fanatic. I am sure my position will not be a popular one, matters dealing with religion are always sticky. It is a position I felt compelled to take however. The numbers affected by the change are not an issue. The principle is. Since some tax money goes to support the hockey program, the same consideration extended to Catholic families should be extended to Protestant families.

Sincerely yours,
Bruce A. Dewire

Dear Larz:

Last Friday night my wife, son, and I went to the Spotlighters presentation of My Fair Lady. It was wonderful. My only disappointment was the size of the audience.

I would like to know where all those people are who are always complaining that there is nothing to do in Wilmington. The Spotlighters, I'm afraid, lost money on this production. I only hope it doesn't discourage them.

So to the people of Wilmington I say, stop complaining, get off your fannies and support such organizations.

Views On Dental Health

By RANDALL SMITH, D.D.S.

Anti-Brace Food

Kids have a way of destroy- ing the indestructible. John- nie had a beautiful set of braces. Should have stayed in place until the day of reckon- ing. But Johnnie was a kid. It was a hot day and he was try- ing to break an ice cube with his teeth. Pop went the ice cube - Pop went the braces!

Hard foods, like candies, French bread crusts, hard vegetables, ice cubes, etc. can all fracture the cement that holds the brace to the tooth. Sticky foods, like chewy can- dies can do the same thing. Special attention has to be paid to the kind of food eaten in order to preserve the braces and the teeth that the braces are hooked on to.

Rotary award

Of all the honors given Larz Neilson at his testimonial, the one he cherished the most was a Paul Harris Fellowship from the Wilmington Rotary Club. Pinning him with the Paul Harris medal is Wilmington Rotary President Dick Forrest.

Neilson and Neilson

Wilmington's oldest town official, Mildred Neilson, exchanges greetings with Larz at his testimonial. Mrs. Neilson is a member of the Carter Lecture Fund Committee. She is the widow of Larz's first cousin, Eddie Neilson.

Getting his digs in Peter Neilson, Larz's oldest son, presented his father with a new garden shovel. Larz told him that he would be welcome to come and use it anytime.

Testimonial took Larz by surprise

Capt. Larz Neilson went to the Wilmington Sons of Italy Hall on Thursday night expecting to address that group on the history of Wilmington.

On arriving, though, he was quite surprised to find nearly 300 people gathered to honor him on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of his newspaper, the Town Crier.

"When Larz first walked in here, he was surprised," said Jack Authalet, president of the Massachusetts Press Association. "That surprise, however, has since turned to worry. He looks out here at this group and he says, 'My God, if this can go on without my knowing it, what else is there in Wilmington I'd better be worried about?'"

Authalet was among several people who were present to roast Larz, as well as to present him with some significant honors.

Perhaps the most prestigious honor awarded Larz was a Paul Harris Fellowship, from the Wilmington Rotary Club. The fellowship represents a donation of $1000 by the club to the charities of Rotary International.

Captain Neilson was also named as Wilmington town historian in a selectmen's proclamation read by Robert Cain, chairman of the Board of Selectmen. Capt. Neilson has been compiling stories of town history for many years, publishing them in the Town Crier. The selectmen also proclaimed Thurs., Nov. 20 as Capt. Larz Neilson Day.

The honors came from both high and low. There were citations from the governor, from the Massachusetts House of Representatives and the Senate. There was a flag from Congressman Jim Shannon, presented by Selectman Rocco DePasquale.

The presentation from Wilmington Town Manager Sterling Morris came a bit lower in the order of things. Instead of the Paul Revere Bowl which the town customarily presents, Larz received a chamber pot, which Morris described as being of similar size and of noble purpose.

Larz suggested that the pot be given to Finance Committee Walter Kaminski as an appropriate vessel for the town budget.

A gift of similar ilk was announced by a letter from Dr. Henry Foster, president of the Charles River Breeding Laboratories. Larz, an enthusiastic backyard gardener, will never have to look very far for a source of manure to make his garden green. Charles River has granted him a lifetime supply of rat manure.

Robert Cain, chairman of the Wilmington Board of Selectmen, read a citation honoring Larz as a native son. Larz corrected him, pointing out that he had been born in Woburn. He did not move here until he was nearly 15 months old.

The Tewksbury selectmen also had something for Larz. Chairman Charles Coldwell presented him with a year's subscription to a rival newspaper, "for your reading and wrapping pleasure."

Another Tewksbury selectman, Dick Morris, represented the Tewksbury Lions Club. He noted that Larz, although not a member of the club, nearly had a perfect attendance record at the club's meetings. Because Larz never eats at the meetings, the club presented him with a restaurant gift certificate.

Larz is also a frequent visitor to the Tewksbury Rotary Club, and even manages to attend meetings of the Wilmington Rotary Club, of which he is a member. Both Rotary clubs were well-represented at the testimonial.

When Capt. Al Wilson, president of the Mass. Maritime Alumni Association, presented Larz with a large ariel photo of the academy from which they both graduated, Larz commented, "It looks like Charlestown State Prison."

Capt. Wilson said that he had pulled out the records of the Nantucket, the school ship on which Larz had sailed, hoping to find some records of wayward conduct on the part of Larz as a cadet. He reported that he had been able to find no such reports.

Other groups which made presentations included the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce and the New England Press Association.

Former Town Crier employee Claire Maguire, having noticed that Larz occasionally misplaces his camera, presented him with a large dummy camera, such as would be used in a retail display.

Master of Ceremonies Joseph Courtney was able to reminisce about the founding and early days of the paper. He was the town manager of Wilmington at that time, and as such, survived a campaign to do away with the town manager form of government. Larz had labeled Courtney's opponents "termites," and they had a slogan, "Joe must go."

Courtney also recounted an occasion when he and Lloyd Bender had visited the Town Crier office on press night to find Larz in a frenzy. The computer tapes for that week's issue had disappeared. Courtney and Bender saved the day, and the issue, plowing through the dumpster to recover the tapes.

The big picture

For people who are prone to lose cameras, there is the gigantic loss-proof camera. Larz received this gag gift from Claire Maguire, at right.

Legal pot

The chamber pot is perhaps symbolic of what is available for town financed gifts, since the passage of Proposition 2½. It had been town custom to present a Paul Revere bowl at the testimonials. Wilmington Town Manager Sterling Morris (right) presented Larz with the pot, but it was a borrowed one that had to be returned. Joe Courtney (center) served as master of ceremonies.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William F. Murphy of Crescent Street, Wilmington and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony P. Sbano of Webber Street, Wilmington.

Thank you

It is not often that the publisher of the Town Crier is caught by surprise, but such was the case last Thursday evening, at the Sons of Italy Hall in Wilmington.

To the three hundred who were present, and to the others who participated in the testimonial, heartfelt thanks. It was an event that will not be easily forgotten.

It was pleasing to learn that any money remaining is to be used to purchase a display case, for the Harnden Tavern. Hopefully it will be able to house the Wilmington arrowheads collected by the late Ernest Eames and the publisher.

Pet of the week

This beautiful pure-bred Huskie is currently at the Tewksbury Pound waiting to make someone's winter a warm, snuggly one. If you'd like to take him or some other dog home, visit the pound on Pond Street or call Dog Officer William Butt (in photo) at 851-6421

Vandalism at dog pound

Vandals smashed the wire caging at the Tewksbury Dog Pound Sunday night, allowing four dogs to escape. Dog Officer William Butt, who reported the incident to police, said it marked another in what's becoming an almost weekly assault on the pound.

He attributes the acts of vandalism in part to the fact that the pound is set well back from the road (Pond Street), allowing youths to sneak up to the structure undetected. Two of the dogs that escaped were pure-bred German Shepherds, and the other two were mixed breeds.

Junior High Math Fair

The hard work and cooperative efforts of many students, teachers and judges resulted in another enjoyable and successful Math Fair at Tewksbury Junior High School on Tuesday, November 10.

In the 7th grade, first place went to Lisa Pifalo with her project entitled "Prime Numbers Are Not As Innocent As They Seem;" second place went to Edwin Barnes with his project "The Binary System;" and third place went to Tanya Chase with her project on "Mathematics and Music."

Honorable mentions went to Sheri Strong for her project "Reflections and Rotations," and to Robert Dunlay for his project called "Numbers in Various Bases."

In 8th grade, first place went to Tracy Stratis with her project on "Linear Programming;" second place went to Craig LeDuc with his project on "Topology;" and third place went to Jennie Trudeau and Lisa Hanke for their dual project called "Mathematical Music." Winning honorable mention were James Daley and Paul Cooney for their projects, entitled "Statistics and Surveying."

In the 9th grade, first place went to Kathleen Griffin with her project on "Logic and Computers;" second place went to Shenna McGovern and Eileen Griffin for their dual project, entitled "The Trachtenberg System;" and third place was awarded to Michelle Muise for her project on "Topology." There was one honorable mention at this grade level, going to Kelly Drane for her project on "Permutations and Combinations."

Judges for this annual event came from near and far. Planning Board repeats choice on housing sites

In an informal statement the Wilmington Planning Board has repeated its January 31 statement, with reference to the sites chosen for housing, and now being discussed.

Barbara Cogan and Madelyn McKie, representing the Wilmington League of Women Voters, asked questions at the meeting on Nov. 18. Was there any change in their thinking, relative to housing sites was the gist of their questions.

The first site, in preference, the members said, was land near the Lucci complex, off Woburn Street. However, that site was not one of those which had been listed by the Wilmington Housing Authority, in its letter to the planning board. It is still their number one, in preference.

Of the sites offered by the WHA, the planning board chose as number one the site near the Wilmington Plaza, according to Chairman DeRoy. The choice was made by using the criteria set up by the state. No good topographical maps were available at the time, so that soil conditions were not a part of the consideration.

That site, DeRoy said, is still the site they would name. The planning board, however, did not rate sites by number. Of the five sites named by the WHA the board named three as being best for housing.

Arnold Blake pointed out that the site named would stop all progress on the proposed route for the Route 129 alternate, and then added that the proposal for that route has now "gone down the drain."

Newcomers and Neighbors

On Tuesday, December 2 at 8 p.m. the Wilmington Newcomers and Neighbors Club will hold its monthly meeting at the Wilmington Public Library on Middlesex Avenue. This meeting is the annual Christmas party and will feature a cookie exchange and Yankee swap. Anyone wishing to take part can do so by simply taking a batch of cookies with the recipe and a $1.00 "grab" gift. Neither part is mandatory for attending the meeting.

Donations will also be accepted for the Christmas package to be donated to a local church. Clothing, toys, Christmas decorations, and non-perishable food products are greatly appreciated. A package was prepared at the November meeting and was delivered to a Wilmington church for distribution in time for Thanksgiving dinner.

The Newcomers Club was established to provide a warm welcome to anyone new to the town; however, all meetings are open to the public and anyone can join. The club also sponsors socials for couples, preschool playgroups, and arts and crafts activities. Lovely Christmas decorations are presently being made by members. For more information or for transportation to any meeting, call Debbie Birmingham at 658-6321.

Citizens advisory committee

An independent citizen advisory council has been established by the Tewksbury School Committee.

This 15-member independent body will inform, advise and make recommendations to the school committee.

The purpose of C.A.C. is to set up effective communication between the citizens of Tewksbury, the school committee, students, and administrators. It will also promote and conduct public forums on educational issues.

Meetings are posted at the Town Hall. They will be held on the first Monday and third Tuesday of every month at 8 p.m. in the Patten Public Library.

The elected officers of the C.A.C. are: chairperson, Monica Costa; vice-chairperson, Robert Sovelski; and secretary, Jim Powers.

At the last meeting, Anthony Bozzinotti, the technical coordinator at Shawsheen Tech, spoke to the council regarding the scope and operations of his school.

The C.A.C. invites parents and school organizations of Tewksbury to inform them of topics that the C.A.C. should look into and advise the public and the school committee on.

Wilmington police news

Activity for the past week reflected the weather to a great extent. Over 20 accidents were investigated and most of them were related to slippery roads and excess speed. Twenty-seven burglars and robbery alarms were checked out by officers. Seven criminal arrests were made along with three protective custody detentions due to drunkenness.

Five larcenies were reported with stolen property including bikes, tires and batteries. Only five disturbances were reported, but vandalism calls numbered 15. Three breaks in to homes and businesses were investigated as well as reports of three attempted breaks. Three cars were stolen and four were returned to their owners. Seven reports of suspicious activity were logged along with three assault and battery complaints.

A sudden rash of fires around town, which turned out to be bonfires set by youths were checked out. Several trespassing complaints were made by businessmen concerned with youths hanging around their premises.

Tip of the week: District Court procedure - After arraignment and the following appearance of attorneys, a district court case is usually scheduled for trial. It is not unusual, though for more continuances to be requested by either prosecution or defense. Frequently witnesses are difficult to schedule and sometimes evidence that has to be sent to the State laboratory or the division of Food and Drug labs requires more time in processing and making results available.

In any case when it does reach the trial state the defendant, if found guilty or is unhappy with the disposition of the case can appeal to the Lowell six man jury session where he will be able to plead his case over again in front of a jury. In case of a guilty finding a District Court Judge can not sentence anyone to more than two and a half year period in the House of Correction. More on the courts next week.

Arrests

Two men were arrested early Wednesday morning after Officer Pat King interrupted them attempting to break into Huntley's Hardware Store in Wilmington Plaza. Arrested after a short chase down Main Street by Sgt. LaRivee and officers King, Jepson and Redding were Michael Woolf of Church Street Dorchester, and Dana Woolf of Dorchester Avenue, Dorchester.

Friday morning Sgt. Palmer arrested Stephen L. Carbone, 5 Middlesex Ave., Wakefield charging him with operating under the influence of alcohol and having no license in his possession.

John Ahlman of Salem Street, Tewksbury was arrested Friday evening by Officer Vassallo who charged him with operating under the influence of alcohol. The arrest followed the investigation of an accident.

A Charlestown juvenile was arrested Saturday evening by Officer McKenna and charged with larceny of a motor vehicle after recovering a stolen Honda from Boston.

Lawrence Nobile of Fay Street, Wilmington was arrested Saturday morning by Officer Al Venuti. Nobile was charged with possession of Class D drugs, operating under the influence of alcohol and failing to keep to the right of the road.

Accidents

Icy roads were blamed for a head-on collision Wednesday morning between a mini school bus van and a compact car on Rt. 62 over Rt. 93. Hollis Steinberg of Merrimack, Mass., driver of the compact was taken to Winchester Hospital. Taken to the Regional Health Center was Isaac Herminio of Magnolia Street, Dorchester, operator of the van, owned by Colonial Car Lease Co. of Plymouth.

Fatal accident

Friday evening Paul Sousa, 19, of North Street, Wilmington sustained fatal injuries in a two car collision on Woburn Street over Rt. 93. The Sousa vehicle was struck after it crossed to the opposite side of the road, by a van driven by Maureen Fortunata of Ronald Drive, Tewksbury.

Miss Fortunata and three passengers were injured and taken to the Regional Health Center for treatment. Others injured were Carolyn Gorman of Maple Road, Christine MacMillan of Patriot Road, both of Tewksbury; and David Weatherbee of 15 Cottage St., Wilmington.

Officer Michael Celata is investigating the accident along with Registry Inspector Richard Langin and Safety Officer Shelley.

Stolen cars

Friday at 4 p.m. Hope Syvertson of Paddock Street, Wilmington reported her 1977 Olds Cutlass stolen from the G.E. parking lot. It was recovered in Boston Sunday evening by Amtrak Police.

Saturday evening Barbara Bailey of East Street, Tewksbury reported her 1972 Olds stolen from Rocco's Restaurant.

Dog officer

Dog Officer Joe Balestriero has reported over 20 leash law violations recently, which bring $10 to $20 fines for dog owners. Eight owners were fined $15 for not licensing their dogs.

The dog officer reminds owners that the state law requires all dogs to be licensed by their owners. He is currently processing records for 1980 in an effort to locate any unlicensed dogs in town.

Women's Club

Veterans services were the focus of the Wilmington Women's Club at its November meeting. Visiting the club were (from left) Mrs. F. William Ahearn, first vice president of the state federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Malcolm A. McNall, state veterans service chairman. Shown with them are Mrs. Marion Woller, president of the Wilmington Women's Club and Mr. Jeanne Sottile, leadership membership chairman of the local club.

Selectmen discuss gasoline consumption, vehicles

More than a dozen town department heads were summoned to a meeting of Wilmington selectmen Monday night to respond to questions about possible overconsumption of gasoline and overuse of town vehicles.

The brainstorming session was the idea of Selectman Daniel Ballou who said that one of the main concerns he had heard from voters when he wore out shoe leather on the campaign trail was that town officials were abusing the use of town automobiles and trucks.

"The thing that struck me was the big Chryslers with the big gas tanks," Ballou said. Ballou also said he had personally seen town vehicles at the Burlington Mall and the Redstone Shopping Center.

Even many town employees are upset, Ballou said, that they must use their own cars and their own gas to get to work while their supervisors take town vehicles "over to Kitty's for lunch, and so on."

Ballou said that while he didn't expect any dramatic changes immediately there should be "more accountability" built into the system.

According to Highway Superintendent Robert Palmer, however, a system of registering and monitoring gasoline consumption is already in use with monthly reports being sent to Town Manager Sterling Morris.

"To get better control," he said, the town recently awarded a contract for a key control system "so that each car in the town that gases up at the highway or police department will have a meter with a key."

Because the cost was prohibitive, the system will not include those vehicles that gas up at the fire department, however.

Palmer also said that the town was gradually doing away with big engines. "Most of the engines are 351s. There's only one 400 left and the police department cars are 302s," Palmer said.

"We have made strides in downsizing everything," Palmer said. "We wanted to go to four cylinder engines but now is just not the right time." With Proposition 2½, he said, there simply isn't enough capital for such an investment.

"We're trying to get by with what we have," Palmer said.

Town Manager Sterling Morris said he believed that the department heads were justified in having 24-hour availability of town vehicles.

"They are all required to respond on a 24-hour basis whenever they are called," he said. "I don't think we should expect them to use their own vehicles."

Besides, Morris asserted, were the town vehicles left at the town garages overnight they would be a prime target for vandalism.

Selectman Aldo Cairra said he was surprised at Ballou's concerns. "No one has ever called me in six years," he said. Cairra admitted that there was room for error, however, and suggested that copies of the gasoline mileage reports generated by Palmer be distributed to the selectmen.

Dadant Drive resident Ann Linehan suggested that the town initiate a "trip sheet" to keep track of exactly how town vehicles are used.

"It seems to me that would be a reasonable and logical way to monitor where those trucks are," she said.

Palmer said he believed a trip sheet would only mean more paperwork and "wouldn't amount to anything."

Wilmington crime watch

Do you know when and why you should call the police department? The police department needs your help and depends on you to call and report any suspicious activity. There have been many times when a call to the police may have stopped a crime, but because someone felt they were "bothering" the police or that "someone else must have called" that call was not made and a crime was committed.

Call the police immediately about all suspicious activity and make the call yourself - you do not have to give your name, but give enough information so the officer will know it is not a phoney call. The police will need certain information if you can give it:

What happened? - When? - Where? - Is anyone injured? - Vehicle license number - Vehicle description -

Direction of flight - Description of persons - any other obvious feature. When describing suspects, notice age, race, sex, height and weight. Compare your weight and height with theirs. Pick out some unique characteristic that will help with identification.

Don't worry about being embarrassed if the call turns out to be an innocent situation. The police officer would rather check out a crime prone situation than be called when it is too late. The direct reduction of crime in town is partly your responsibility along with the police department. Opportunities to commit crime must be reduced! The police need your eyes and ears to help stop the criminal.

Remember - your call may save a life, prevent an injury or stop a criminal act.

Wilmington senior topics

Council meets December 1

The Wilmington Council on Aging will meet at the Drop-in Center Monday evening, December 1 beginning at seven o'clock. The controversy on elderly housing will be discussed as well as the special town meeting scheduled for December 8.

Baby sitter needed

A young couple would like to have a senior citizen babysit their seven month old son through the month of December from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. daily. Transportation will be provided. Call 658-8365.

Bowlers needed

In order to start the bowling league this season, more bowlers are needed. Transportation to the lanes will be by mini-bus if the bus is not busy with other appointments.

Christmas party

Signing up for the Council on Aging Christmas party is in progress at the Drop-in Center. Those planning to attend should sign up as soon as possible as there will be a cut off date after which names will be placed on a waiting list.

Hot lunch appointments

Some seniors are becoming a little lax in calling the Drop-in Center to make hot lunch reservations. Those wanting to take part in the lunch program must call the center by 11 a.m. the day before they plan to attend. The same formula holds for doctor and hospital appointments. It is impossible for the driver to be in two places at the same time. It is also quite expensive to transport one senior to an out-of-town hospital in the morning and another senior to the same hospital or one in the same area in the afternoon. Please contact the center as early as possible about doctor and hospital appointments.

Wheelchair equipped vehicles

Wheelchair equipped vehicles can be obtained on a limited basis for disabled persons who wish to be taken to doctors or hospitals. Advance notice must be given for either of these services.

No news on fuel

So far no information is available on when fuel assistance applications will be available, but seniors will be notified.

Tewksbury High School football coach Bob Aylward is ready to try just about anything. "This is our first practice," he said Saturday morning while watching his backs skate around the practice field that was a nasty mixture of mud and snow. "I told the kids to go home every day this week and watch the soap operas," said Aylward, who is trying hard to low-key a game that could clinch the West Division of the expanded MVC for Tewksbury.

"The Tuesday before last year's game (a 27-8 TMHS loss) we could have beaten the Patriots. But for some reason, we came out flat. I think we might have been over-prepared," admitted Aylward, who moved from the Wilmington coaching ranks to Tewksbury in 1974.

Aylward and his staff have been putting in some overtime, trying to pick apart Wilmington's weaknesses while leaving nothing to chance. Unfortunately, breaks and the team that gets those opportunities early is usually what determines a winner in the series that stands 21-17 in Tewksbury's favor since it began in 1935.

In recent years however, when this Thanksgiving morning game has meant anything in terms of standings

Seeking an answer

Tewksbury coach Bob Aylward hopes he has come up with the secret of just how to defeat the Wildcats in an important football game.

or bowl berths, the Wildcats have emerged as the clear-cut winners.

In 1976 an unbeaten Tewksbury team was crushed 32-0 at Wilmington, and it was the Wildcats who went to the School Boy Super Bowl and not the Redmen. A year ago, the Redmen were riding high with another shot at the Super Bowl and just one loss when the Cats up and mauled them, this time at Tewksbury, 27-8.

In both games, Wilmington forced many Tewksbury mistakes, and in both games the Redmen never got into their high-powered finesse offense. The Wildcats have been extremely adept at turning Tewksbury back on Turkey Day since 1970. Since that game, a 13-3 Mike Esposito-sparked Wildcat victory, the slate stands 6-2-2 in Wilmington's favor.

The Redmen have never beaten a John Ritchie coached Wilmington team (0-2), with the last Tewksbury win coming in 1977 when Fred Bellissimo was handed a 27-0 loss in his last game at the Wildcat helm. Since that game, the Redmen have been turned back by Ritchie's troops 14-13 and 27-8. The seniors playing on this fine Tewksbury team have never beaten the Wildcats. This is, of course their last and perhaps their best shot at it, with a high-powered attack generally considered to be the best offense in the conference.

As is often the case in this game, the records are not to be taken at face value. Anyone can win, and this year the game is a match-up of two very evenly-matched teams.

The Redmen (7-2-0) have defeated Central Catholic (34-0), Chelmsford (16-0), Haverhill (17-0), Greater Lawrence (28-6), Lowell (21-6), Dracut (24-6) and Greater Lowell (43-0). The losses have been in the second game of the season against Billerica (7-6), and in a late season showdown when they were blitzed by a better Lawrence team (15-6).

The Wildcats are in peak form after staggering through some early season games with injuries and sickness problems, while also having a tough time making leads stand up in the fourth quarter.

Wilmington's (5-4-0) five victories have come over Greater Lowell (46-8), Central Catholic (21-0), Austin Prep (32-0), Lawrence (7-0) and Lowell (18-0). The losses - and they are toughies - were to Andover (27-14), Billerica (9-6), Chelmsford (8-0) and Dracut (7-0).

For several games, the Wildcats were having an inordinate amount of trouble getting their offense in gear. The defense has been steady throughout the year, and it was responsible for winning the Lawrence game. The attack showed definite signs of life in the victory at Lowell November 15.

So now Aylward and his team play those mental games again, trying to forget recent Thanksgiving football history while preparing for a team, that if it defeats Tewksbury Thursday, will have pulled no upset at all. The Wildcats are a team, says Aylward, that could very easily be going into this game undefeated. A look at each of the clubs prior to Thursday morning:

Tewksbury Redmen (7-2-0)

Tewksbury enters this game with all of its guns loaded. They include All-Conference quarterback Dennis Vecchi, who leads all Division II passers with 12 touchdown tosses.

Dennis has a variety of weapons to work with, and they include senior scatback Tom Horgan (5-3, 130) and junior running back Frank Fay (5-8, 150). Both are adept inside or outside runners, and both can catch the football.

Vecchi's favorite target is burly senior tight end Mike Prescott (6-1, 215), who is also a legitimate All-Conference candidate. Completing this fine quota of skill people are senior fullback Bob Byrd (5-9, 180) and lanky junior receiver Dan ("Stork") Munroe (6-2, 180).

Obviously, the Redmen want to do what they do best, and that is run wide and throw the ball to a variety of receivers. Tewksbury has the speediest backfield in the conference and the best throwing quarterback in the MVC as well.

"I said it before the season started and I'll say it again before this game," offered Aylward, who is 2-4-1 against his former team, "this is the best overall skill I've had here." Few MVC teams would disagree.

"We have to utilize the talent of these kids, spread it out and attempt to be somewhat unpredictable. We try to keep the big plays and the scoring balanced among several kids," said the Tewksbury coach.

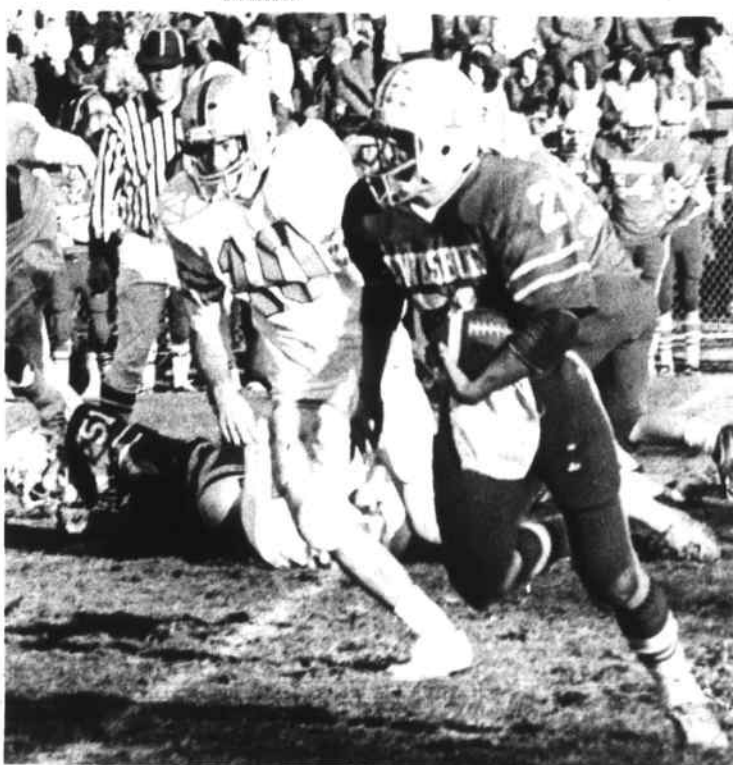

Vecchi, Horgan, Byrd, Fay and Munroe have all gotten into the scoring act for Tewksbury in 1980, leaving doubts on just who Wilmington will key on. A good guess Tackle Rick Ballou (65) has been an outstanding defensive player for the Wildcats this season. Quarterback Glen Sargent (14) has helped spark the offense.

Tewksbury Redmen

The 1980 edition of Tewksbury High School football is set for Thursday morning's annual Thanksgiving clash with Wilmington.

is that the Cats might double team Prescott, but that of course leaves someone free, possibly Fay or Horgan swinging out of the backfield.

"John's a fox, he's very bright and picks things up very well. You take one thing away from him and he'll come right back and attack at it," noted Aylward.

A very big key to a Tewksbury victory is the play of the offensive line, an area where the Redmen suffered severe breakdowns in last year's loss to Wilmington.

"The only chance we have to win," advises Wildcat senior tackle Rick Ballou, "is to put pressure on Vecchi." In last year's Turkey tilt, the Cats chased Dennis all over the field, and despite the fact that the TMHS quarterback completed 22 passes, that heat still disrupted Tewksbury's offensive flow.

The people who must keep the pressure off Vecchi and open the cracks that spring Horgan and Fay, are guards Steve Arpin (Sr. 5-7, 140) and Chet Sullivan (Sr. 5-10, 165), tackles Scott Tremlett (Sr. 5-8, 170) and Rich Bradanick (Jr. 6-2, 190) and senior center Dick Danner (5-8, 170). If Wilmington does manage to apply pressure early, look for the Redmen to go to the shotgun attack.

quick offensive and defensive lines. Aylward also has a lot of respect for senior WHS quarterback Glen Sargent. "He has a classic style and a beautiful release," said Aylward.

The task of shutting down a Cat attack that is just starting to come around will fall to Redmen defensive starters Tom Brothers (Sr. end, 5-11, 165), Prescott (tackle), Tremlett (tackle), Karl Wilson (Sr. middle guard, 6-0, 205) with Mark Indelicato (Jr. end, 5-9, 165) rounding out the defensive front.

The Redmen linebackers will be Arpin and junior Buddy Pelczar (5-8, 155), with the defensive backs Fay, Munroe, Vecchi and junior Todd DiRocco (5-8, 160).

Accurate junior Charlie Santos handles the punting, placekicking and kick-off chores for Tewksbury. Vecchi, Horgan, Byrd and Tremlett are the team's quad-captains. Aylward's assistants are Connie Barry, Barry Sheehan, Gerry Rideout, Tim Fallon, Joe DelGrosso, Ernie Lightfoot and Mark Petros.

As far as Aylward is concerned, the respective roster and statistics comparisons are meaningless. What it comes down to, says the TMHS head man, is his team's ability to both Tewksbury through the press just two days before the game.

"Let's face it, Tewksbury is the best offensive team in this league, but we've been pretty stingy on defense lately," said Ritchie. Ain't that the truth. Wilmington has blanketed Lowell and Lawrence in its last two games, and has allowed more than one touchdown in a game just once this season, in the opener when the Cats simply wore down in the fourth quarter at Andover.

Wilmington has surrendered just 59 points in nine games, with only Tewksbury (40), Lawrence (47), Methuen (53) and Chelmsford (58) having allowed less. When the offense wasn't there for Wilmington, the defense took a toe hold.

Ritchie senses that getting to Vecchi will be the key. "If we don't get to him, well..." his voice trailed off. Can Tewksbury burn the Wildcats with the Fay or Horgan sweep against the 4-4 defense that features many linebacker stunts? "That's the place (outside) to go against that defense. But we do play other defenses," advised Ritchie. Most notably a stingy 5-3.

The Wilmington defense will open up with Jeff Linehan (Jr. 5-9, 151) and Ken Runge (Jr. 5-9, 181) at the ends, Rick Ballou (Sr. 6-1, 200) and Mike Russo (Sr. 5-9, 191) at the tackles and junior Greg Farnkoff (5-9, 176) at the nose guard.

Wilmington's linebackers are Paul Bova (Jr. 5-7, 186) in the middle, flanked by Jon Nolan (So. 5-8, 150) and Craig Richards (Jr. 5-7, 164). Matt Phillips (Sr. 5-11, 185), Ed Olshaw (So. 5-6, 135) and Mark Boudreau (Sr. 5-7, 180) are the Cat defensive backfield.

The starting offense has Sargent (Sr. 5-11, 173) at quarterback with Boudreau and Phillips his running backs. Richards will start at wingback.

Ballou and Bova will start at guards, with Runge the center and Russo and junior Bob Santos (5-9, 205) at the tackles. Wilmington also boasts a pair of fine receivers in Rusty Ryan (Sr. 5-11, 160) and Joe Burbine (Sr. 5-10, 187).

Burbine, a Wildcat tri-captain along with Phillips and injured guard Dennis Foley, will punt, with Olshaw kicking PATS and Phillips kicking off. The Wildcat assistant coaches are Eddie Harrison, Jim Tildsley, Don Rice, Bill Cullen and Len Chin.

Game time Thursday is 10 a.m., and Wilmington High School Faculty Manager Bob Dicey reminds everyone to arrive early, as parking spaces around the school are always at a premium.

Fan interest is always a bit higher when almost no one is expecting a cakewalk in either direction. Tewksbury coach Aylward surely isn't. "They could very well be undefeated. They are a better team than Andover, just like we are a better team than Billerica." That, my friends, is just like saying that both these clubs should be heading into this game with one loss apiece.

Redmen weapons

Quarterback Dennis Vecchi and runningback Tom Horgan, both seniors; will be two of Tewksbury's main weapons Thursday morning.

Defensively, for the first time this season Tewksbury will be faced with the task of stopping two hard driving straight ahead runners. Big backs who bang between the tackles have given the Redmen fits this season.

"Phillips and Boudreau are two big bulls with good speed," warned Aylward. "Some people feel that Phillips is the best back in the league."

The Wildcats' size in the offensive backfield will be a very big factor swinging in the home team's direction should the game be played on a muddy or frozen field. There is an excellent chance that the game will be pretty much custom - made for mudders barring a drastic change in the weather before Thursday.

"Yes, a poor field might be to their advantage. Their key backs are bigger than ours, plus they have a bigger team up front as well, but that is nothing unusual for us," said Aylward, whose Tewksbury teams have been characterized by small but execute and wipe out the memories of past Thanksgiving disappointments. "For us it is almost totally a matter of execution. Usually what opens up for us in practice opens up for us in the games."

Must Tewksbury work hard to gear up mentally? "Without question," says Aylward. Wilmington certainly has a finger on just how the Redmen must be feeling. "We sure hate to do it to them every year," chuckled one Wildcat prior to Monday's practice.

Wilmington Wildcats (5-4-0) Coach John Ritchie was busy pulling his players out of a meeting for prospective hockey players, and the veteran of many MVC coaching wars was ory. "If my team is just as mean on Thanksgiving as I am today, watch out," advised Wilmington's coach before Monday's rain-soaked practice.

Ritchie obviously is counting on his defense to keep the Wildcats in the game Thursday, but as is customary, John isn't about to reveal his hand to

Linehan speaks out

Wilmington High School defensive end Jeff Linehan, a disc jockey Sunday on Worcester radio station WAAF's weekly Amateur Night, had an interesting request and a message for Tewksbury quarterback Dennis Vecchi.

Linehan told his audience that Vecchi would, "have sack written all over him" in Thursday morning's Thanksgiving clash with the Redmen. Jeff then dedicated the tune "Another One Bites the Dust" to the Redmen, and received a friendly phone call from the Tewksbury quarterback, who fully expects to show up come Thursday morning.

Senior Division tryouts will be Tuesday. Hurton first

Former Tewksbury High School and ULowell track star Mike Hurton won a 15 kilometer race held in Lowell Sunday with a fine time of 46:26. Tewksbury's Bob Labadini was third in 47:30.

Former rivals lead Maine Central

Former Wilmington High School quarterback John Robarge teamed up with a pair of former Redmen, Bill Johnston and Dave Burns, to help lead Maine Central Institute to a fine 5-3-1 season.

"Robbie" as he is known to his teammates, was an outstanding QB this fall for the MCI Prepper football team. His passing, ball handling, footwork and ability to lead were all traits that carried the team to a fine 5-3-1 year.

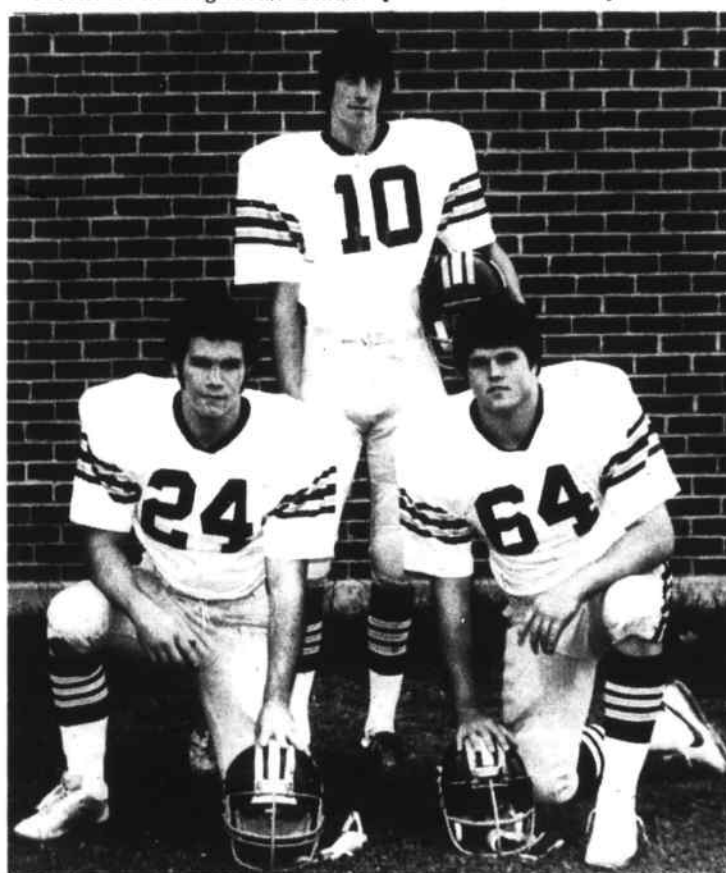

In nine games, John had eight 100 yard-plus passing games, and he had eight games in which he threw a touchdown pass along with back to back three touchdown games against Middlebury and the University of Maine.

The former Wilmington High School standout had a total of 11 TD passes, 90 passes completed, and 1006 yards. "John is a pure passer and a solid prospect for college next fall," said coach Mike Haley.

Bill Johnston, a Tewksbury standout last fall, was a starting guard this season at MCI. He became one of the steadiest blockers on the team and was especially adept at leading the sweep. His steady improvement makes him a good college prospect next fall.

Former Tewksbury player Dave Burns worked his way into a starting berth as a cornerback this past fall at MCI. He developed into a fine one-on-one pass defender, and was one of the best tacklers and defenders against the run. Steady and solid improvement marked his year.

Former rivals team up

Former Tewksbury High School players Dave Burns (24) and Bill Johnston (64) have teamed up with Wilmington's John Robarge (10) to produce a 5-3-1 season at Maine Central Institute.

Pee Wee's drub Methuen

Coach Paul Bjork's Wilmington II Pee Wee's traveled to Methuen High School Sunday to face Methuen I, and continued where they left off last weekend against Lowell by blistering the undermanned Methuen I team with 34 shots on goal in an 8-2 romp.

Scoring honors for Sunday's game went to Peter Dirupo, who turned in the team's first hat trick, (including two power play goals); Jim Magliozzi with two goals; Dave Michaud, Steve Bjork, and Mike Stuart, each with a goal and an assist; and Steve Lowry and Tom O'Reilly with the other assists.

The Wilmington defense - Steve Lowry, Rich Kurowski, Tom O'Reilly, Chris Sullivan and Dave Roberts, kept the pressure on the Methuen offense for most of the game.

Goaltending duties were shared by Randy Jackson and Derek Seneca, both of whom turned away several good shots. Wilmington II's record after Sunday's victory climbed to 4-1.

Intramural
Pee Wee's roar back
Wilmington's Pee Wee I team came roaring back in the third period with three goals to tie Billerica I 6-6 last week.

Wilmington had several of its key players in New York with the Pop Warner football squad, so they were forced to play with just 14 players.

Those who were on the ice and played well were: Rich Barnes, Mike Banfield, Bill Steed, Gregg Smith, Jay Joyce, John Corbett, Bob Seville, Chris Edmonds, Butch Alders, Steve McKenna, Chris Cogar, Joe Lacey, Steve Arena and Eric Peters.

Eric Peters, in goal for Wilmington, turned aside 37 of Billerica's 43 shots on goal to help in gaining the tie.

Wilmington's goals were scored by Bob Seville with the hat trick, Bill Steed, John Corbett and Gregg Smith. Assists went to Jay Joyce (2) and Chris Edmonds.

Olshaw paces Bridgton Academy

The Bridgton Academy football team, under head coach Tom Austin, has completed its 1980 season with a 4-2-1 record behind Wilmington quarterback Fred Olshaw. The post-graduate preparatory school, whose schedule is composed of college freshman or subvarsity teams, posted victories over Bates College (26-7), Springfield College (16-0), University of New Hampshire (10-0) and Norwich University (29-18), with a 6-6 tie with University of Rhode Island and losses to University of Maine (7-14) and Boston College (6-20).

Olshaw, a former Shawshen Tech standout, played well at quarterback for Bridgton Academy this season. Fred is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Olshaw. He is a very special young man, in that he took a year off after high school graduation to work so that he would be able to attend Bridgton this year.

After a year away from football, Fred had a slow start, but came on strong as the team's quarterback, starting against Norwich and Rhode Island. In the Norwich game, Fred was 6 for 12, including two touchdowns and a two point conversion.
